Local produce that the area is renowned for

There's a traditional folk rhyme that names the 'seven great things of Sussex' - these are: Pulborough eel, Selsey cockle, Chichester lobster, Rye herring, Arundel mullet, Alberley trout and Bourne wheatear. While nowadays it may be more difficult to grab your hands on some of these delicacies, Sussex is home to many other culinary delights that you can get at the local shop, pub and restaurant, such as the Sussex Pond Pudding, the original banoffee pie (invented in 1973), and some top-class beer. Sussex also has the most amount of vineyards in the UK. Furthermore, to solidify its status as UK's premier wine region Sussex won in 2006 the Best Sparkling Wine in the World at the Decanter World Wine Awards.
